Greetings Champion!

Each of us profess that we are committed to personal growth and development, but most of us do not want to appear wrong or make a mistake in the eyes of others. This is a paralyzing contradiction.

The whole idea of not modifying ourselves or changing the direction of our lives comes from our fear of being wrong or making mistakes, or worse yet, having others watch us while we're doing it! (I hate when that happens.)

You must get over your unreasonable desire to always be perceived as right. Stay true to your path, be yourself, don't worry about making mistakes, and don't compromise or conform to gain the approval of others.

Romans 12:2 instructs us, "not to be conformed" to this world or fashion ourselves after the pattern of others. The desire to please others and gain their approval is the desire to fit into THEIR pattern, which is probably not the pattern God wants us in.

If we always want to be "right" and are afraid of being "wrong" how can we possibly change, develop, and grow? Being successful is nothing more than a Positive Self-Correction process.

All that is required to change the direction of our lives is Positive Self-Correction. And here's the payoff in it for you: As you grow and "become more," you will soon be able to do more and have more!

A motivating thought that has helped me work on changing what and how I think has been the realization that, "If the way I have thought in years gone by was capable of producing the life and lifestyle I desire – I would already be living my desired life." Thankfully, I finally figured out that to have what I desire – I must overcome my fears, and start thinking, believing, and acting differently.

You can have more than you have now ONLY because you can become more than you are now.

Becoming more every day,

Pastor Glen
